CHARITON, IOWA
LABORSHED ANALYSIS

A Laborshed area is based on its commuting pattern, which defines the communities that contribute to an employment center's workforce. To determine the boundaries of a Laborshed area, local employers supplied the residential ZIP codes of their employees.

The map below illustrates the documented Laborshed area for Chariton, Iowa

The contributing communities, along with the distance of each from the employment center, were entered into a statistical model which estimated the number of individuals, per community, who would consider an employment opportunity in Chariton, Iowa.

The map shows the estimated concentration levels, per community, of individuals who would accept employment in Chariton, Iowa.
